• PROSECCO •

Let me set the record straight, Prosecco isn't Italian Champagne, sure it sparkles, but it's an entirely different wine, made exclusively from the Glera grape, using a different production technique. We've travelled the Veneto, and partnered with producers like Andreola, Tonon and Terre di San Venanzio to offer you Prosecco not available anywhere else in the UK – with all styles by the glass at fantastico prices! Salute!

• UNDERSTANDING PROSECCO •

FRIZZANTE OR SPUMANTE?

We offer a Frizzante 'semi-sparkling' which offers a delicate sprinkling of bubbles in your mouth. The Spumante 'sparkling' is the most popular fizz style ... an orchestra of bubbles dancing on your palate!

BRUT, EXTRA DRY OR DRY?

Most Prosecco is made in the dry style – called 'Brut'. The fruit-forward flavours of this style are often mistaken for sweetness. Other Prosecco styles are characterised by containing more sugar. Brut has up to half a gram of sugar per glass, whereas Extra Dry has just over a gram of sugar which gives the mouth a riper fruit-feel perception, this is the most popular style in Italy. The sweetest style of Prosecco is in fact called 'Dry', we have two of these on our list. It is a sensation of sweetness which gives the Prosecco tropical notes such as pineapple, mango and banana and is amazing!

WHY CHOOSE PROSECCO?

The popularity of Prosecco here in the UK is down to its light, easy-drinking style. Citrus freshness, green apple and pear notes, Prosecco doesn't need a special occasion to enjoy it – just fantastic company and our frosted, chilled Prosecco flutes. Enjoy salute!
